

FIRM PROFILE

What We Do

We help exhibit experts create interactive media-based experiences. Our goal? Get your visitors more engaged and connected to your interpretive messages. We make visitors jump for joy, laugh, point, share, and ask others to join them in their discovery.

Who We Are

Drumminhands Design is a group of designers, coders, interpretive thinkers, visitor experience crafters, and technological magicians. Led by founder and principal Chris Evans, we offer a commitment to quality custom media-based software and hardware solutions with easy-to-maintain parts and pieces.

How We Work

In order to make interpretive stories sing, we first collaborate with content experts to identify key messages. Then, we help you select the best media choices for your story and budget. In most exhibits, technology should be seamless with your design, working behind the scenes to build a sense of awe and magic. We use principles of Universal Design to create inclusive and approachable experiences for visitors of all abilities.